Current Topics.

There is no doubt that at the present time the Church of God is face to face with an unparalleled opportunity ofwinning the world. Never before has there been such a demand for the Gospel. The whole world is being awakened by the war to the spiritual need of every man. There is a vast field of labor and an almost limitless supply of laborers.

A Time of National Visitation.

The responsibility of bringing the divine lesson home to the hearts of the people rests upon the Church, which, as a member of the Gospel, is appointed to be the witness and keeper of the truth. If our nation is to be brought back to God the Church must lead the way.

As we look round upon Australian life there is much to sadden our hearts. The spirit of the age, so far from being an opportunity for the diffusion of the Gospel, is a hindrance to it. The Church is called to do its part in preserving the national character from degradation, there is a still better way, and that is to seek a Spiritual Revival.

A Spiritual Revival Needed.

In Australia today, in spite of all the signs and wonders of the modern world, we find that the Christian Church is still a reality. We find that there is a still better way, and that is to seek a Spiritual Revival.

The Revival should be called to do their part in preserving the national character from degradation, there is a still better way, and that is to seek a Spiritual Revival.

The Church of England's role in the war effort, and the reasons for it.

Mr. Atkinson, President of the Church of England, in his address to the members of the Church, said:

"As the great power of God, the English people, the Church of England, has never been greater than at present, but it is not in the same way as formerly.

"Our task is both to drag those who are lost from the error of their ways, and to lead those who are saved into the path of righteousness."

The Plan of Salvation.

Our task is both to drag those who are lost from the error of their ways, and to lead those who are saved into the path of righteousness.

Mr. Ridley then proceeded to outline the general plan of campaign. He said:

"Our task is both to drag those who are lost from the error of their ways, and to lead those who are saved into the path of righteousness."

The Plan of Salvation.

In view of the effect that victory in the war may have upon the whole of "Catholic" Christendom, and the part the Christian Church should play in it, Australia should be able to play its part in the direction of the re-union of East and West.

"Our task is both to drag those who are lost from the error of their ways, and to lead those who are saved into the path of righteousness."

Australia National Life.

(By "Native Born").

We intend to publish a series of articles on "of the Church of England until it was destroyed by the War, for the transformation of the Church of England into Australian National Life," which has been kindly lent us by "Native Born.""
This passage also ends with an echo of the Lord's words, spoken to those who asked if they should crucify: —

"Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's: and unto God the things which are God's." —

Surely St. Paul had those words in his mind when he wrote: "Render, therefore, unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and unto God the things which are God's." —

The Conversion of St Paul (January 17).

A SPIRITUAL MIRACULOUS.

Three times in the Acts of the Apostles, St. Paul makes acknowledgment according to the Conversion of Saul from Tarus. In each instance, the immediate reference to the event is set before us. It is a remarkable story, that of Saul becoming a convert and then going on to become an instrument in the hands of God for the conversion of the world.

Later, in his epistles, Paul addresses himself to the churches, and speaks of the great change of heart which led him to Christ. He says: "It is the definite turning of the heart, to see things in a new way. It was by the grace of God that Saul was converted. The influences may prepare for it, as was the case with Saul. But the great change that took place in him was not just a matter of sentiment. There were real effects of the conversion. "The Morer" says of the day: —There is something in this effect which is distinct from the merely natural. It is something which can be seen in the lives of believers."

In another place, Paul sets his conversion before us as a pattern of other conversions. "How should we do?" He asks. "From that day forward, I lived a new life."

In our text, we read that the conversion of Saul took place in Damascus. "A light shone over Damascus to carry out his cruel purposes.

The Archbishop of Melbourne, appointed Bishop Green of (formerly of Sydney) to the newly created Diocese of Bathurst, to which Philips, a man scholar, was in the Commons. "The Bishop says that it is not to be supposed that he ever intended to write a book."

"It is of the utmost importance that we should know whether our great conversion was genuine or not."

"I have been in the habit of saying that it is impossible to account for miracles."

"The Bishop of Bathurst is spending a four-weeks holiday with his family at Stanwell Park, near Sydney."

Many of the clergy are away on well-cared holidays, Bishops Church being among quiet, and there will be little to report. The most interesting news of the week is that the Rev. H. S. and Mrs. Hales, have been awarded the C.S.M. and are going to England to read for Orders, and those who accompany them to England will come to fill the places of the absent Sunday School teachers. Full up the ranks and do the work of the week. We have passed the summer and are going to spring forward.

II.

The next landmark in my progress was a Sunday School, where I was put in with two other angels. I soon learned that we had to learn every Sunday a lesson from the New Testament, as well as a lesson from the Old Testament. Each of us was given a complete set of the Sunday School lesson plans, which were part of the curriculum for the school.

What is prayer? A. A little help and food given freely and without charge. B. Speak for the present hour! We won them there. C. Sometimes it is necessary to be in heaven to understand it. D. It is important to understand the meaning of prayer and try to express it in one's own words. E. The message of love and kindness.

We have received the free copy of a new magazine called ‘Our Girls and boys’ Magazine.’ It is for Australian boys and girls, and published every month. The price is remarkably reasonable, especially as the magazine is in full colour. We have been asked to stay and teach, and to support the work of the church.

The Story of a Little Dog on a British Warship.

Perhaps you will remember that the late Lord Baden-Powell, when he was very much addicted to the chocolate drink, used to sit by himself and think of how he could best serve the cause of Boy Scouts. It was in this spirit that he founded the Boy Scout movement, which has now spread throughout the world. One day he was on board a British warship, and as he was looking out over the sea, he saw a little dog on the deck. He went to the dog and asked its name, and the dog replied, “I am just a little dog, but I am not afraid of anything.” The Lord Baden-Powell was so impressed by the courage of this little dog that he decided to write a story about it. He wrote the story, and it was published in ‘Our Girls and boys’ Magazine.’

Aims and objects of the society.

To avoid any confusion, the following points are to be noted:

1. The Victoria House Hospital for Incurables is a private and voluntary institution, and is not dependent on Government assistance.

2. The hospital is open to all classes of patients, irrespective of creed or nationality.

3. The premises are well-equipped and well-ventilated, and the treatment is carried on under the superintendence of experienced medical practitioners.

4. The hospital is managed by a Committee of Managers, consisting of persons of influence and respectability.

5. The patients are all treated with the utmost kindness and consideration.

6. The hospital is not intended to compete with the public hospitals, but to render relief to those who cannot afford the cost of medical attendance elsewhere.

7. Contributions are received from the public, and the Committee of Managers are always open to suggestions as to how the hospital may be improved.

8. The hospital is not a place of amusement, but a place where patients may be cured or relieved of their suffering.
