APPROVED DEACONS

The Christian Reformed Church in Australia has formally approved the ordination of eleven new deacons. However, the new deacons will be a deaconess who is over 50 years of age.

The resolution declared that the ordination of a deaconess is in the “best interests” of the church.

In the written explanation of the reasons for the decision, the Church stated that the ordination of deaconesses is “an important step in the evolution of the church and its mission.”

The Church also noted that the ordination of deaconesses has been a matter of contention for some time, and that the decision was made to bring the Church in line with the majority of Protestant churches.

The Church emphasized that the ordination of deaconesses is not a departure from traditional beliefs, but rather a reflection of the changing times and the need to be more inclusive in its approach.

The ordination of deaconesses was a significant step for the Church, as it acknowledged the important role that women have in the church and in society, and recognized their contributions to the church’s mission and ministry.

Breakthroughs in Christian work. Taken from the title of a new book by New South Wales are jumping with an enthusiasm for sensitive evangelism that has not been stunted centuries is a well established fact of history. What is unexpected is that one of the best ways of doing this would be if young people are organised to billet a country group. The Youth in History, It was a fascinating indepth analysis of what was shown in the press towards the Muslim religion almost as if there are almost 3 million adherents in North America. Youth Evangelism Breakthroughs

Many youth groups in schools and churches in Sydney and the rest of New South Wales are jumping with an enthusiasm for sensitive evangelism that has not been stunted for centuries. Young people are being organised to billet a country group, and a youth night is always found it very difficult to go, but no longer, for they have become middle aged and decisions which emerge from the Middle East. Hanson wrong

We have noticed many errors in the recent letters to the Editor. Could the people who make mistakes please put in a lot more effort? And could the people who read the newsprint please make sure that they are actually reading it before they submit it to the Editor?

A. C. Hogg, Rostrevor, NSW

Letter to the Editor

The letter of the Rev Frank Hanson (A.C.R. 29/10/78) contains a number of inaccuracies. For example, the suggestion that I have been involved in the promotion of the "Christian Fellowship" is incorrect. I have never been involved in its promotion. Furthermore, the suggestion that I have been responsible for the publication of the "Christian Fellowship" magazine is also incorrect. I have never been involved in the publication of that magazine.

A. C. Hogg

ACC critical of Record

May I be permitted to reply to the letter of Mr Hanson (A.C.R. 29/10/78)?

Mr Hanson claims that the "Christian Fellowship" magazine is being used as a vehicle for the promotion of the "Christian Fellowship". This is incorrect. The magazine is used for promoting the work of the "Christian Fellowship". Mr Hanson also states that the "Christian Fellowship" is being used as a vehicle for the promotion of the "Christian Fellowship". This is incorrect. The "Christian Fellowship" is used for promoting the work of the "Christian Fellowship".

Yours sincerely,

R.T. Harris

The Bishop Speaks Out

Legalisation of prostitution

The Bishop speaks out on the legalisation of prostitution. The Bishop argues that the legalisation of prostitution is not only a moral issue, but also an issue of justice. He states that the legalisation of prostitution perpetuates the exploitation of women and undermines the dignity of the human person.

COMING TOGETHER

Ecclesiologically it is not a particular issue for me. From the time I first came to know Christ as a fifteen-year-old, I found myself involved in the Church and its activities. I have been involved in the Church's work for over twenty years, and have been involved in different aspects of the Church's work. For me, the Church is not only a place of worship, but also a place of service and witness. I am committed to the Church's work, and I believe that it is important for the Church to be involved in the work of the world.
